LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE,
OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS,
Washington, D. C., June 22, 1912.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith for publication a General Index to Experiment Station Record, Volumes XIII to XXV.

In 1903 a general index was issued covering the first twelve volumes of the Record and Experiment Station Bulletin No. 2, the latter being a digest of the Annual Reports of the Experiment Stations for 1888. That index included the publications of the stations from their inception under the Hatch Act down to the close of the year 1900. It has served a very useful purpose, making these publications, together with the large number of other documents reviewed in the Record, readily accessible to students. The convenience of the index has led to a quite urgent demand for a supplementary index to cover the later volumes.

Although the separate volumes of the Record are quite fully indexed, it is impossible to keep the system of entries exactly uniform throughout a series of years; hence a key or summary is essential to bring together and unify the entries in the different volumes. Moreover, the Record finds extensive use as a means of looking up the literature on special subjects extending over a long period, and for that purpose a general index is not only a great time saver but an important reliance against overlooking articles bearing on these subjects. Considered from the standpoint of the bibliographer and the student, a general index to such a review journal as the Record is extremely desirable, and is essential in order to complete the mission which the journal aims to fill.

In planning for the second general index, it was originally designed to have it conclude with Volume XX, but it was found impracticable to complete the index at that point and hence it was extended to XXV, which brings the résumé down to the close of the year 1911. The preparation has been aided by the plan of retaining the cards used in indexing the separate volumes and later combining these, but a large amount of painstaking work has been necessary in editing, arranging, systematizing the entries, and in other ways preparing the copy for the printer.

Respectfully,

E. W. ALLEN,
Acting Director.

HON. JAMES WILSON,
Secretary of Agriculture.
